Gifts Turned Over to the Red Cross and All Ceremonies Are Simple.

London, July 6.—To-day was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the mar-riage of King George and Queen Mary. The popular rejoicing with which such an event would ordinarily be celebrated restrained in consequence of the war, and the only public ceremony com-memorating the event in which the royal couple participated took the form of a special trankagiving service in St. Paul's Cathedral. This was followed by a visit to the Guildhall, where a congratulatory address and a gift from the City

Driving from Buckingham Palace in what is known as "semi-state," the King and Queen passed through the main streets in an open landau drawn by six horses, attended by outriders and escorted by a troop of Life Guards and Royal Horse Guards.

Upon reaching the boundary of the city, the square mile of London under the jurisdiction of the Lord Mayor, the time honored ceremony of surrendering the city's sword of state to the sovereign was observed. After the sword was re turned to the city officials, in accordance with custom, the procession continued to the cathedral.
